FACT SHEET

Jacob's Cure is a 501c3, non-profit foundation that was created in September 2000.

Jordana Holovach is the Founder and Director of Jacob's Cure. She created the foundation because of her passion to save the life of her son, Jacob, who is afflicted with Canavan disease, a fatal genetic brain disorder.

The sole mission of Jacob's Cure is to fund research in Canavan disease that aims to cure thousands of children dying of Canavan disease today.

Jacob's Cure proudly allocates 95% of monies raised to research, this made possible due to volunteer staff and minimal overhead.

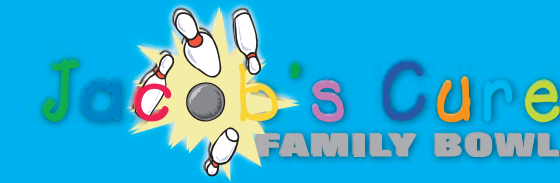

Areas of research include gene-therapy, stem cell transplantation, pharmacological approaches and basic science in understanding the pathways of the disease.

Accomplishments include a successful gene-therapy trial including 24 Canavan patients at Cooper Hospital/Robert Wood Johnson and a pharmaceutical trial that has been approved for 15 Canavan patients also at Cooper Hospital at the direction of Dr. Paola Leone, Director of the Canavan Research Lab at Cooper.

Because Canavan is considered a rare disorder, federal funding is scarce. It is through the efforts of Jacob's Cure and the philanthropy of others that enables Canavan research to continue and a cure for Canavan a hopeful reality.

STRIKE OUT CANAVAN DISEASE

dear friends,

This year marks an incredible milestone for Jacob when he turns 10 years old at the end of February. It seems fitting that the event is a week following his birthday because we do not believe Jacob's 10th birthday would have been possible without the support and dedication of all those involved and the amazing turn out we continue to have year after year. We are thrilled to share Jacob's 10th birthday with all of the people that keep research in Canavan disease moving forward towards a cure. Without you, the laboratory doors would close because federal funding for rare diseases like Canavan remains scarce. In spite of this we continue to move forward and defy the odds. In celebration of Jacob's birthday, this year's event will raise funding for Dr. Paola Leone's (Canavan Research Director) work towards a stem cell transplant in Canavan disease. Dr. Leone's goal is to begin treatments in the Spring of 2007. There is no better birthday gift than the gift of life and a cure! My appreciation is endless for your continued support and partnership in the cure for Canavan disease.
